

This sample demonstrates some types of annotations that can be created with DsPdf.

Note that some annotation types may not display in certain viewers (such as built-in browser viewers). To see all annotations on this page, open it in Acrobat Reader or other full-featured PDF viewer.

A red text annotation is placed to the right of this note.

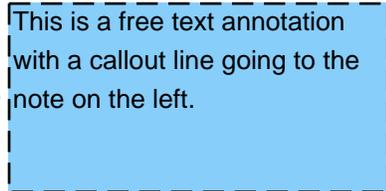

A green text annotation that is initially open is placed to the right of this note.

A blue free text annotation is placed below and to the right, with a callout going from it to this note.

This is a free text annotation with a callout line going to the note on the left.

A square annotation drawn with a 3pt wide orange line around this note has a rich text associated with it.
